Former Maid Sues McGauley for $20,000

PRISON CHAPLAIN WRESTLED WITH GIRLS, WOMAN CHARGES

DR. M'GAULEY SUED BY EX-HOUSEMAID FOR $20,000 IN DAMAGES

Charging she was attacked by Dr. Walter G. McGauley, defeated candidate for mayor, when she refused to act as a "spy" upon his wife, while she was employed as a domestic in the McGauley home, No. 380 Jamaicaway, Elizabeth Malone today filed suit against McGauley asking $20,000 damages.

The suit was filed in Suffolk Superior Court.

In the suit Miss Malone charges that almost immediately after she went to work in the McGauley home in September, 1924, the doctor asked her to "spy" upon his wife during his absences from home. She says she refused, telling him she was a "domestic and not a detective."

She declares that on Aug. 3 last, Dr. McGauley demanded to know what his wife had been doing during his absence, and that she flatly refused to tell. Thereupon, she charges, Dr. McGauley ordered her out of the house, telling her her services were no longer required.

She offered her a check, she says, for an amount less than she thought was due. When she started toward a telephone to call her aunt for advice she says Dr. McGauley wrenched away the telephone and pushed her down several steps, injuring her chest, back and right side.

Dr. McGauley, following the incident, said Miss Malone had been discharged for failure to care for his children properly.

RADCLIFFE WRATHY AT LAMPOON'S JIBES

Some of our meekest, mildest Radcliffe girls put on their "women scorned" complexes today, sharpened up pretty, pink fingernails, lighted the fires in their fawn-like eyes and girded up their new-fashioned galluses in a six-cylinder sortie of wrath against the funny Harvard Lampoon men.

And when the young furies had completed their bombardment of words against the Crimson comics, raw and bleeding Harvard dignities lay strewn about Harvard square and justice has been done against the Lampoon's making sport of the Radcliffe girls.

"The only examination a Radcliffe girl can't pass."

Thus read a captain in the Lampoon beneath a cartoon of a Radcliffe girl peering into a mirror.

And today came back the biting retort—particularly biting in the light of Harvard's ragged football season—that these few things are what a Harvard man can't pass gracefully:

"1.—A football (this is very touching to Harvard men).
2.—A bargain counter.
3.—Out.

In the "crime" column of the Harvard Crimson, which has been

NICHOLS PLEDGES HUB 'BEST SHE DESERVES'

Mayor-elect Malcolm E. Nichols made his first public appearance today since his victory on Tuesday and at the same time another political war broke out, with he clan of Mayor Curley attempting to gain control of the incoming council.

The public appearance of the Mayor-elect was made at the Hotel Bellevue, where he was a principal guest at the monthly meeting of the Crossed-up Fishon Post, American Legion.

"I hope I will be able to give this city not only the best I have, but the best she deserves," Nichols said in a brief talk.

"We in the city can make the country if we do not overlook the wonderful opportunity that is ours. Not a plan in the world has

BED AFIRE, BABY DEAD, BROTHER IS BURNED

Herbert Lazarus, 15 months old, was burned to death, and his brother Chester, three, was severely burned when a feather bed upon which their mother, Mrs. Sol Lazarus, had left them in their home at No. 96 Ellington street, Dorchester, caught fire.

The smoke was seen by Patrolman John W. Fartain of Station 19, who made three attempts to enter the smoke-filled home before he could bring out the body of Herbert and carry Chester to safety.

The mother had gone to a store, and it is believed the older child set the bed on fire. When found by Fairain, the older boy's clothing was still ablaze.

Both were sent to City Hospital, where Herbert was pronounced dead and Chester said to be in a dangerous condition.

General Motors is selling for $885,000,000, against $407,000,000 only a year ago, the Dodge Brothers business is quoted at over $252,000,000, compared with what seemed an extravagant purchase price of $146,000,000 only the first of last May.

Hudson Motor, now termed a "second Ford," commands $154,000,000, or almost five times its market value of $37,000,000 just 18 months ago.

SHOTGUN AMMUNITION BLAST SCATTERS FIREMEN

North Hadley, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.)—Three thousand rounds of shotgun ammunition exploded, driving firemen in all directions, during a fire today that swept the general store of Ralph A. Warner, a grist mill and a building formerly used as an ice cream plant. Firemen from Northampton aided the town firefighters. The total fire loss was estimated at $30,000.

SAYS MINISTER'S WIFE PLAYED HYMNS AT SUNDAY JAIL BOUTS

West Hartland, Me., Nov. 5.—Tales of wrestling matches on the floor of the women's chapel between Rev. Percy J. Clifford, chaplain of the Thomaston, Me., prison, and girl prisoners, were revealed today by Mrs. Gladys Staples, just released from the prison after a three-year term. Mrs. Staples made her statement to the Boston Evening American following revelations of a break between Governor Brewster and his former friend and supporter, Austin H. MacCormick, secretary of Bowdoin College and an authority on prison reform, over the recent investigation of the prison.

According to Mrs. Staples, Mrs. Clifford, wife of the chaplain, presided at the organ and played such hymns as "The Rugged Cross" and "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" as an accompaniment to the boxing and wrestling bouts.

Boxing matches between the preacher and Emily Wicker, a girl inmate of the prison were also on the Sunday program, she declares, and ones the chaplain received the worst of the bout and a bloody nose.

So great was the disturbance one Sunday a few weeks before her discharge that Warden Eaton pounded on the pipes in his office as a signal for the noise to stop. Mrs. Clifford at one of these exhibitions fled from

THREE SEIZED IN PLOT TO KILL MUSSOLINI

Rome, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Announcement of the frustration of an attempt against the life of Premier Mussolini, which was to have been made yesterday while Rome was celebrating the seventh anniversary of the armistice with Austria, created a political sensation throughout the country today.

In Rome the former Socialist Deputy Zaniboni was arrested, just at the moment police said, he was leaving his hotel to make the attempt. At Turin the retired General Louis Capello, a prominent Mason, was arrested on a train leaving the country. Zaniboni's secretary also is held.

As a result of the affair the government has ordered the prefects throughout Italy to occupy all the Masonic lodges subordinate to the Grand Orient in Rome, national headquarters for the order.

Stefani, the semi-official news agency, says that the Government is considering dissolution of the Unitarian Socialist party.

On several occasions recently the police received information, which they kept secret, that an attempt was being prepared against the premier. A few days ago they obtained confirmation of these reports and the added information that the attempt would be made during celebrations of the armistice with Austria.

The police entered a room in the

FOUR JURORS CHOSEN IN MACRI GIRL'S CASE

By BERT FORD

Litchfield, Ct., Nov. 5.—The task of filling the jury box in the trial of Olympia Macri for the killing of John Pagnano took on an easier aspect today, with some promise that it would be finished by next Monday.

Up to noon three additional jurors were sworn. They fourth is Mott Darling, 74-year-old farmer, of Kent.

Darling was asked if his health was good, and he drawled: "Guess so, if you saw me at table" (laughter).

Darling said he had scarcely read anything about the case.

Frank J. Harrison, fifty, married, no children, carpenter of Sharon, was selected as the third juror.

Lionel P. Humphrey, married, retired farmer of Norfolk, the second talesman called, said he would rather listen to the radio than to read reports of the Macri case, "as I sleep better after the radio."

He admitted prejudice against the accused, and was excused.

A new squad of veniremen was on hand when court opened at 9:30 a. m., a half hour earlier. Of the 130 summoned sixty-one have been examined or excused.

John S. Davey, sixty, of Torrington, a retired shoe merchant, was selected as the second juror, shortly after court opened.

REFUTING LAMPOON'S CHARGE THAT 'OD LOOKS ARE NOT TOLERATED AT RADCLIFFE'

Here is photographic refutation of the Harvard Lampoon's charge that "Radcliffe is the brain college where good looks are not tolerated."

Accompanying the caustic comment of the university publication was the cartoon, reproduced below, under which was printed a caption entitled "The only examination that a Radcliffe girl cannot pass." This quintet were snapped at random on the campus today and no one will gainsay that they not only can pass the examination of the mirror, but also would rate high in a "brain" examination, contrary to the Lampoon's implication that brains and beauty do not go together. The girls in the photo, above, are left to right, Lillian Zecrow, Irma Dangel, Freda Freidman, Frances Small and Peggy Spiegelberg.

HARVARD MEN CALLED RUDE BY GIRLS

opened to them for their side of the warfare, the mad maids today characterized the Harvard students as "rude, uncouth, unshaven, with a taste addicted to windows and acting as if they were lords of the earth."

GIRLS DISAGREE.

But—as in every war—pacifists appeared in the Harvard-Radcliffe set-to, the principal one of these being Marion Silvius, editor of the weekly Radcliffe paper, who turned today on her sisters, and not only declared the Crimson letters were "faked," but characterized her sisters as "poor sports, with the laugh on themselves."

This made the girls more furious and the pretty, pearly teeth gnashed wildly with none of that hollow reverberating heard when store molars mash.

"The cartoon in the Lampoon was funny and harmless," said Marion traitorously. "The boys meant it as a joke and most of us took it that way. I don't believe any girl could be so silly as to write the Crimson for editorial aid. I think the paper just made up those letters for another joke."

Marion muffed it, however, according to assistants of Richard H. Field, the Crimson editor. They came out with the startling information that some of the feminine-penned letters of indignation on colored stationery were scented—but the scent was of cigarettes.

How awful!

APPEAL TO CRIMSON.

"There's no doubt that the girls wrote them," declared the assistants in musical chant. "We saw them with our own eyes."

Carried back to Marion Silvius and a few of her pacifist followers in Whitman Hall, dormitory of disturbed Radcliffe, this news cut more ice than a dull pen knife.

"This part is just another joke by the Crimson instead of the Lampoon," she quoth. And that settles it, as far as the dignified Marion is concerned.

The girls appealed to the Crimson to carry on their battle against the Lampoon when the latter publication referred to Radcliffe as "the brain college where good looks are not tolerated." This brought a toast from one girl.

"Come girls with your glasses; I propose a toast to Lamp.

"May his insolence be rewarded with eternal barbedordeon."

A HARVARD MAN.

The following definition was made of the Harvard man.

"If you perceive a face, rough with unshaven growth and hair hidden under a Fuji-pedlar's hair if, you stand up in a subway train while the man seated in front of you gazes blankly, but with a distinct motive, at the advertisements; if you receive a Dempsey-like punch in the ribs as you try to get out of the door; if you step off the boardwalk into the mud to let him pass; if his taste runs to windows—my dear, you have discovered a Harvard man, 'lord of the earth.'"

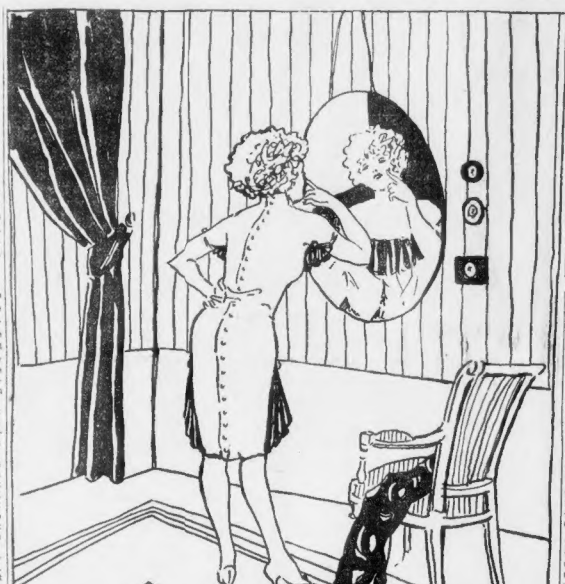
The climax of the column came when one girl offered to oppose the Harvard undergraduate to determine the beauty championship of the two colleges. She said:

PUBLIC AS JUDGE.

"I am willing to put twelve photographs of the prettiest girls in Radcliffe against anything the Lampoon can produce from its handsome board, the pictures to appear in the Crimson and public sentiment to be the judge."

The college girls contend that the Lampoon stacks have ceased to be even remotely humorous and are untrue. They also assert that the publicity connected with the derogatory digs is handed to the college.

The Crimson has refused to take up the matter in an editorial way, according to Mr. Field, and will not print the letters condemning the attitude as forwarded by over a score of Radcliffe girls.



This is "the only examination which a Radcliffe girl cannot pass," according to the caption under the cartoon which appeared in the Harvard Lampoon. Whereupon the Radcliffe girls rose to retort that the Harvard boys not only lacked good manners, but also had taken quite a few croppers in football examinations at the Stadium this year.

MUSSOLINI PLOT FOILED

Hotel Dragoni, near the Chigi Palace, where the Ministry of Foreign Affairs is situated, and surprised and arrested Zaniboni at the very moment he was about to leave on his alleged mission.

At the same time the authorities at Turin arrested General Louis Capello, who was on a train, alleged by on his way out of the country. Both men are being held for the action of the courts.

It was announced later that Zaniboni's private secretary, who is editor of the Popolo Quaglia, also was arrested.

The orders to occupy the Masonic lodges were sent to all the prefects in the kingdom. The Grand Orient is National Masonic Headquarters and is directed by Domizio Torrigiani, grand master of the order in Italy. General Capello also is a prominent Mason.

As soon as the arrests became known Signor Farinacci, secretary-general of the Fascist party, issued a manifesto ordering the Fascists throughout Italy to gather at their respective headquarters this evening to carry out demonstrations of rejoicing over the Premier's "escape from the assassin's bullet." Signor Farinacci also ordered the Fascists to refrain from any attempts at reprisals.

Premier Mussolini's circular to the prefects read:

"News of the abortive attempt against me must not by any means arouse reprisals by the Fascisti. Order must not be disturbed in any way. This I demand with the utmost severity.

"The unsuccessful attempt is confirmation of the dispersion of the most hateful elements of the opposition, who see their battle henceforth irretrievably lost, and contributes toward the growing consensus of the people for the present regime.

"The Government measures consist in the occupation of all the Masonic lodges, the arrest of all culpable, dissolution of the Unitarian Socialist party and suspension of the publication Giustizia, and should exclude other initiatives, of whatever nature, by individuals.

"I am sure that all Fascisti will obey, as always.

"MUSSOLINI."

Premier Mussolini also has sent orders to the prefects to take energetic measures to prevent reprisals.

The Premier has received many messages of felicitation, the first being that of King Emmanuel. Minister of the Interior Federzoni has returned to Rome, breaking a journey through Tuscany, on account of the affair.

NICHOLS GUEST OF LEGION VETERANS

Mayor-elect Nichols for his coming Hub administration, he declared in an interview after the meeting—but he smiled when he said it.

THINKS BEFORE ACTION.

Appointments are far up in the air, municipal changes have not yet been thought of and no program of any sort has he laid out, he asserted.

"As you know, I never do anything in a hurry," the Mayor-elect said. "I have got to think some things over.

"My plans are not yet even in the formulative stage. I have considered no appointments yet. There is plenty of time for me to do that before I take the office over."

The new Mayor said he was spending his time today between the campaign office, his law office and home—where he is getting much needed sleep.

Following close on the heels of the Mayoralty fight, a bitter struggle was started by the forces of Mayor Curley today to control the incoming City Council.

DEMOCRATS MEET.

At the invitation of Ex-Senator Thomas H. Green of Charlestown, seven of the thirteen Democratic councillors-elect, gathered at the Parker House to caucus on the nomination of a president.

Those present were former Senator Green, Councillor-elect from Ward 2, Charlestown; Michael J. Ward, Ward 9, Roxbury; Edward T. Englert, Ward 11, Jamaica Plain; Timothy F. Donovan, Ward 1, East Boston; John I. Fitzgerald, Ward 3, West End; John F. Dowd, Ward 8, Roxbury; Walter J. Freeley, Ward 10, Roxbury.

The Curley influence was evident in the fact that Ward is his former secretary; Englert is a brother of Superintendent of Public Buildings John F. Englert, and Dowd is a former director of the Boston Bureau of Americanization. Furthermore all those present with the exception of Fitzgerald and Donovan, are said to be Curley men.

Fitzgerald, as president of the Democratic City Committee, and a Lomasney man, is undoubtedly a candidate for presidency of the council.

It was evident, however, that a determined attempt would be made to put over a Curley man, so that although not in the mayor's chair, Curley would be in position to dictate to a considerable extent at City Hall.

Those Democrats who did not respond to the invitation are George F. Gilbody, Ward 16; John T. Carr, Ward 6; William J. Lynch, Ward 7; Joseph McGrath, Ward 13; John McMahon, ard 15, and John J. Hefferman, Ward 22.

The thirteen Democratic members of the new council will form a majority over the nine Republicans, unless the attempt to bring harmony is unsuccessful.

With the mayoralty campaign and its disastrous results to a disorganized Democratic party only two days gone, it is freely predicted that an even more protracted struggle may occur in the council.

At any rate today's caucus is seen by the political experts as a shrewd blow on the part of Mayor Curley to obtain the ascendancy.

With twenty-two members of the council as contrasted to the old membership of nine, a return to the log rolling practices of other days is expected.

If Curley is successful in obtaining control, it is apparent he can cause much trouble to his successor, Mayor Nichols, after the latter takes office.

Councillor Gilbody, the only member of the present council to be re-elected, has been a member of the body for five years, and because of his srvice is a logical candidate for president.

'Dutch' Anderson Scion of Danish Nobility

MOTHER IS AWAITING CONVICT'S LETTER

Believed Runaway Was Business Man, Says Lawyer, Revealing Real Name

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 5 (A. P.).—The veil of mystery that shrouded the real identity of "Dutch" Anderson, slayer, bank robber and desperado, whose career was ended by a bullet from his own gun in Muskegon, Mich., Saturday, was pierced today.

In a copyrighted story the Rochester Journal and the Post Express prints the life history of the bandit, as given by William J. Baker, an attorney of this city. The records at Atlanta Federal prison gave the name of Mr. Baker as the person to be called in case of death.

A widowed mother waits patiently in Denmark for another letter from the boy she thinks is prospering in business in this country. That letter never will come.

And to the Rochester attorney falls the lot of breaking the sad news.

MOTHER IN IGNORANCE.

Madame Von Teller, representative of a noble Danish family, never knew that her son, Ivan Dahl Von Teller, and "Dutch" Anderson, bandit, safe blower and desperado, were one and the same.

Mr. Baker said: "She does not know and I hope she never will know.

"At the age of twenty he ran away from home and came to America. With 'the lid off,' it was not long before he fell in with criminals of various kinds and soon his genius for crime began to assert itself. From petty crimes he soon became a member of larger 'mobs,' and it was not many years before he found himself a leader in the circle of those who lived by pitting their intelligence against that of the police for big stakes.

HATED LAW AND ORDER.

"He himself frankly admitted a vicious hatred against organized society.

"This is attributed to an experience in South Carolina, where he was convicted of a crime because, as he would have phrased it, 'there was no one else to hang it on,' and sent to one of the turpentine camps operated by convict labor."

"Anderson always said that he would never be captured alive again," the attorney continued, "but the thing I can't understand is this story that he had a woman companion with him when he was captured. Anderson never worked with women, to my knowledge, and I've known him for a long time."

HEAVY FROST IN SUBURBS

Although Boston reported 34 as the minimum temperature for the night, the suburbs experienced killing frosts. Today the weather experts predicted a gradual rise in temperature for the next 24 hours.

Showers are announced for late tonight and tomorrow. Clearing weather is promised, however, for the Saturday football games.

The extreme cold wave which yesterday froze Calgary has moved eastward to Prince Albert with increasing intensity, and a temperature of 6 below zero was reported from there today.

Rain is general east of the Mississippi, with an unusually heavy downpour of almost four inches reading Shreveport, La.

Greenville, Me., was the coldest point in New England today, with a temperature of 18.

AI-JACKERS BEAT POLICE IN RACE TO RUM TRUCK

Salem, Nov. 5.—Hijackers beat Salem police today to a mysterious auto truck abandoned on the Danvers roadside near this city. A telephone tip to the police that bootleggers were trying to smuggle in a load of liquor, sent a squad of officers to the scene. They found eleven five-gallon cans in the truck. After a four-hour wait in hiding to arrest the truck owners if they returned, the truck was driven to the police station.

A shock came when clear sparkling water, instead of booze, flowed from the cans. The officers believe hijackers had received the first "tip."

HAS REAL MATE NOW

THREE BOSTON MEN DRY SIX YEARS

(International News Reel Photo)

Miss Constance Bennett became romantic one day and was married to a poor student, just for a joke. That's been fixed, and now the screen star is the happy bride of Philip M. Plant, who is heir to a goodly slice of the millions amassed by Morton M. Plant of New York, now dead.

Plant and Bride Gave Love 6-Year Test

By BETTY MILLER.

New York, Nov. 5.—Happiness radiates from every corner of a flower-decked room on the fifth floor of the Hotel Gladstone.

For Mrs. William Hayward, the wealthy and charming former Mrs. Morton Plant, has forgiven her son, Philip M. Plant, and his bride, Constance Bennett, as screen actress, for their elopement last Monday evening.

The young couple were overjoyed—deliriously so. And Philip's face shone as he proudly announced:

"Mother has forgiven us and given us her blessing. We saw her last night, and we're dining up there on Fifth avenue."

Constance, her blue eyes aglean, interrupted:

"Isn't it gorgeous? There's nothing like love! We've been in love for six years, but when one contemplates marriage—why, it's such a big step you have to be mighty sure before you take it.

"Everyone is happy over it. Even perfect strangers are calling us up to wish us good luck. It just shows the public likes me a little, I think."

Her fond glance met her new husband's across a huge bouquet of nodding white chrysanthemums. He seemed to smile approval, and Constance went on, with a toss of her bobbed curls that reminded one of spun gold:

"But I am through with the movies. A career is only a secondary thing, while marriage and love—well, they are awesome. All I want to do is make him happy."

Barbara Bennett, Constance's sister and dancing partner of Maurice, expressed her complete satisfaction by saying:

"I'm just thrilled to tears."

But she refused to discuss the rumor that her own marriage to Louis Bassualdo, wealthy South American, is imminent.

"HE'S MARRIED!" SAID WIFE; SHE'S SPAT ON

David Tacloff of Hawthorn street, Chelsea, was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction by Judge Samuel R. Cutler in Chelsea court today for assault and battery on his wife, with whom he has not been living for three years.

According to Mrs. Tacloff, she saw her husband in front of a Walnut street synagogue a few days ago in the company of two young women. When she approached them and told the girls that they were with a married man, Mrs. Tacloff alleges that her husband spat in her face and then drove off in his machine.

In passing sentence Judge Cutler said that it would have been far less a crime if he had punched her, and that he could think of nothing more humiliating than what occurred. Tacloff appealed the sentence.

Poll Taken in Baltimore Gives Names of Leading Citizens in the "So Help Me" List

Baltimore, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.).—Prohibitionists practice what they preach. They do not vehemently denounce liquor and then sneak away and take a drink.

These statements came today from a symposium of several hundred college presidents, physicians, large employers of labor, judges and statesmen. The poll was taken by the Manufacturers' Record, which is strongly defending the dry act.

"Hypocrite! Hypocrite! has been the cry of the wets against the drys ever since the days of local option led on the march toward national prohibition, said the Record. "This accusation and other false charges and insinuations of like character have usually been ignored."

The Record proceeds to publish a list of prominent men who have written its editors stating they have not taken a drink of any kind of intoxicating liquor since the Volstead law.

Some of the self-confessed teetotalers are:

Henry M. Leland, auto manufacturer, Detroit; Judge Elbert Gary of the United States Steel Corporation; Carl R. Gray, president Union Pacific Railway, Omaha; Courtenay Guild, editor, Boston; Dr. Haven Emerson, Columbia University, New York; Clarence H. Kelsey, Title Guarantee and Trust Company, New York; J. B. Johnston, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; Lamont M. Bowers, Binghamton, N. Y.; W. B. Cannon, Harvard University; W. H. Mentzer, dean, Albany; Arthur Percy, Boston; S. S. Kresge, New York; R. H. Scott, president Reo Motor Car Company, Lansing, Mich.; Charles Piez, chairman Link Belt Company, Chicago; Upton Sinclair, author, Pasadena, Cal.; Senator Ferris, Republican, of Michigan; Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas; E. J. Pearson, president New York, New Haven and Hartford; R. N. Foss, former Governor of Massachusetts, and E. O. Sutton, Knox Motors Associate, Springfield.

J. A. KELIHER IN NO DANGER

Dr. David D. Scannell announced today that he had arranged for the transfer of Sheriff John A. Keliher from the ward he was installed in at the Massachusetts General Hospital to the Phillips House.

The physician stated the change did not indicate anything alarming in the condition of his patient, which was unchanged. It simply meant, Dr. Scannell said, that the Phillips House is better equipped to treat the sheriff's ailment.

It is not considered likely that an operation will be necessary, the sheriff's physicians believing that the difficulty will yield to medical treatment. "The sheriff's condition is not considered serious, although he is suffering from a general let down after the ardors of his campaign as a mayoralty candidate.

Following a conference Dr. Scannell issued a statement at Sheriff Keliher's request, reading as follows:

HUNTER LOOKING INTO GUN BARREL IS KILLED

East Brimfield, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—Frank H. Bottomly, 33 years old, a Worcester sportsman, accidentally shot himself while in the woods here today with a party of Worcester hunters. Mr. Botomly was looking into the muzzle of his double barrel shotgun when the gun exploded.

Mr. Bottomly was connected with the Culver Stearns Company and was a member of the Turkey Hill Polo Club.

Wee befits the Harvard undergraduate who cuts classes to attend the Harvard-Princeton football game on the latter's field Saturday.

MARY BOYLE O'REILLY AND HER PET DOG TRIUMPH IN COURT

The case of the people vs. Wy Che Yeh and Mary Boyle O'Reilly made the awful charge that Miss O'Reilly because of Wy, was guilty of keeping a barking, biting dog at her home, No. 17 Duffield road, Auburndale.

Montague Knott, a firemen of No. 2188 Commonwealth avenue, just around the corner, made the charge that Wy had charitably nipped him in the lower extremity.

But while Wy Che Yeh, cool, calm and oh, so dignified, lay in all his fluffy whiteness at the feet of his mistress in court, Judge Josiah Bacon, in ponderous court dignity, ruled that a dog to be a biting dog, must take at least two samples from one anatomy or one sample each from two anatomies.

GIRL WHO MARRIED WHILE IN JAIL TELLS OF "SCANDALS"

HEARD PLOT TO BEAT CHAPLAIN

the chapel, screaming "I can't stand this any longer," said Mrs. Staples.

Fights among the girls were common and once Mrs. Staples says she was involved in a fight with Emily Wicker after the latter had attacked a third girl with a knife. This fight was witnessed by the other girls and went the limit with Emily on the losing end minus a tooth and badly scratched, says Mrs. Staples.

Mrs. Staples is an attractive young woman of 22, with great coils of unbobbed red hair. She talked calmly, quietly and without show of emotion. Her husband, a quiet, young farmer worker on his father's farm, and with his wife and daughter, will make his home with his parents. He refused to discuss the prison scandal in any way, but appeared willing that his wife should.

"Two persons are responsible for some conditions at the prison, and those two are the Hon. Mr. Clifford and Mrs. Clifford," said Mrs. Staples. Continuing, she said:

"The girls in the prison referred to the chaplain as 'that big Bible stiff' and used to fights among themselves considerable.

She declared that she didn't believe that Warden Eaton was aware of all these happenings and said the girls were reluctant to tell the warden about it because they didn't want to start trouble.

Telling more of the alleged rows, she said:

"Once Emily Wicker started trouble was she went into the kitchen and found another girl eating. Emily wanted to know what right the girl had to eat before she did. This started a fight and Emily, securing a butcher knife, chased the other girl around the room while the rest of us looked on horrified. Finally we secured the knife and Emily and I had a fight to the finish. I won. She lost a tooth and was scratched up some.

"We made a lot of noise and this fight is typical of some of the disturbances among the women. The office heard the racket and I got three days and three nights solitary.

LIKED SOLITARY CELL.

"I have also asked to be put in solitary because of the noise and racket with the other girls. I want to be alone. One night while in solitary I heard a voice of a man outside the gate asking to come in. After inquiring if I was awake.

"I replied that I was awake, but that he couldn't come in. He replied he had something to eat for me and that I could get the food into the cell if I would throw out the end of a blanket from the cot, holding the other end, and then draw the food to the bars. This I did. I don't know who the man was because the entire place was in darkness that night, a fuse having blown out."

Letters for the girls were held up by Mr. Clifford two and three days, according to Mrs. Staples, who also says that he read their mail.

CHAPLAIN HAD ENEMIES.

Mrs. Staples also said that the

Victims of Fire

At top, Chester Lazarus of No. 95 Ellington street, Dorchester, seriously burned in fire today. Below, his brother, Herbert, aged 15 months, who died in the fire.

Rev. Mr. Clifford acted in a condescending way toward the girls and that he was always impressing upon their minds that they were "bad girls." She said he also told stories about the corridors and kept the girls "worked up."

None of the girls liked the chaplain, she said, and one time she declared they planned to waylay him and beat him. This didn't take place however.

There is ample opportunity for improvement in the conduct of the women's department, Mrs. Staples said, but she is not inclined to blame Warden Eaton too much, declaring that he didn't know of the conditions and that the girls didn't want to tell him.

Mrs. Staples had some advice for the young women of today, saying:

"Once a girl slips she is immediately condemned. She is pushed down and little effort is made to give her a helping hand. This is especially true of the reformatory at Sherborn, where I was kept for a considerable period of my sentence. Once she enters that place a girl is condemned for life and come out a worse character than when she went in. It is the start of the road to a bad woman."

WAS STUBBORN CHILD.

Mrs. Staples, although but 22 years old, has served three years being released in November. At the age of 19, in 1922, she was sentenced to the Reformatory for being a stubborn child. She became involved in an argument with the superintendent and was transferred to the prison at Thomaston for an infraction of the rules.

Later she was again sent back to Sherborn, but after six weeks there, again was sent to Thomaston following trouble with the reformatory officials. She finished her term at Thomaston and has been one of the central characters in the prison scandal.

She married Staples in April, 1924 while at the Sherborn Reformatory, going across the street to the Baptist personage with guards to become a bride. After the marriage she went back to the reformatory and Staples returned to West Hartland. The little girl has been cared for by Mr. Staples' parents.

W. K. VANDERBILT REJOICES AT LOSS OF PUBLICITY

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—The difference between present day travel and days when the mere name of a society celebrity on a ship's passenger list called for a column of space in all newspapers was commented upon today by William K. Vanderbilt, who returned from Europe on the Homeric.

"I am glad that time has passed," "It was well meant, but it served no purpose. The publicity which is given to professional people today is what it should be. They can use it, while in the old days such publicity was of no use to the subjects or to the public."

EX-LIBRARIAN WADLIN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Horace G. Wadlin, librarian at the Boston Public Library from 1899 to 1917, and before that chief of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics, died in Winchester Hospital today.

Mr. Wadlin had been devoting himself to literary work for the past few years and had written a series of sketches on the subjects of Wakefield and Reading. These had appeared in a suburban paper. He was arranging for their publication in book form when illness interfered.

Mr. Wadlin, son of Daniel H. and Lucy E. (Brown) Wadlin, was born in South Reading, now Wakefield, October 2, 1841. He was educated in the public schools and under private instruction, and first turned his attention to architecture, in which he achieved a very creditable degree of success.

Besides many private residences in the vicinity of Boston, he designed the Thornton and Dyer libraries at Saco, Me., the fine High School at Biddeford, and the Richard Burden Library at Spencer.

He was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives from 1844 to 1848.

GLORIA'S LAWYER SAYS SHE WASN'T SUMMONED

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Richard J. Mackey, counsel for Gloria Swanson, just back from Europe, appeared today before Justice Ford and requested vacation of an order fining Actress $250 and imposing a jail sentence for contempt. She was never served with the subpoena which she is alleged to have ignored, said.

well over $201,000,000, or $170,000,000 more than for its predecessor, Maxwell, in November, 1924.

These ten motor properties are selling in the stock market for over two billions of dollars, or to be more exact $2,045,000,000, a sum twice the country's national debt before the great war.

Sag in Stocks Fails to Halt Buying

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Reactionary tendencies became more pronounced in today's stock market, but they failed definitely to check speculative operations for the advance, which were effectively conducted in a number of copper, chemical, tobacco and electrical shares.

A large overnight accumulation of buying orders gave opening prices a strong tone, with such popular issues as U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Dupont and American Smelting quickly mounting to new high levels.

When the rally showed signs of slowing up, bear traders threw thousands of shares into the market, which, combined with a vast amount of profit-taking, forced a sharp reaction just before midday.

Motors were the hardest hit, a large number of issues falling one to three points below yesterday's finals.

FRANCS SLUMP TO NEW LOW IN HEAVY SELLING

Paris, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The French political situation caused heavy selling of the francs this morning, and the rate, which has been gradually sliding during the last few days, touched a new low record of 122¾ to the pound sterling.

Brussels, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The Belgian National Bank today raised its discount rate to six per cent, an increase of 1 per cent.

TANK WAGON "GAS" CUT 2 CENTS IN 2 STATES

New York, Nov. 5 (A.P.).—The Standard Oil Co. of New York today reduced the tank wagon price of gasoline in Maine and New Hampshire two cents a gallon, making it 16 cents. Prices elsewhere in the company's territory were unchanged.

The Tidewater Oil Sales Company also made a similar reduction to 16 cents in those two states and in New York State outside of Greater New York.

Round One a Failure Republicans Will Think The S Pot Is Boiling

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1925, by Star Company

IF THE KU KLUX KLAN has begun a fight to the death against the Catholic Knights of Columbus, then Round One, Tuesday's election, was not a triumph for the Klan.

Judging by New York, Detroit, Buffalo, it would appear that in the United States to beat a man you must present against him some better argument than the fact that HIS religion is not YOUR religion.

That was enough once, but not any more.

IN NEW JERSEY the victory of Governor Moore, backed by Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, one of the strongest leaders in the United States, will make the Republican administration think.

The State that President Coolidge carried overwhelmingly now goes to the Democratic party, led by Frank Hague, with the enormous majority of nearly 50,000 for Moore, a Democrat. Republicans will meditate on the fact that Moore went in on a "wet" platform, promising to fight for a modification of the Volstead act.

IN NEW YORK, with its big "radical element," the Socialist vote was microscopic compared with some other years, less than one-tenth the Republican vote, and that was tiny.

Dr. Thomas, Socialist candidate for Mayor, who says "the time is not ripe for a strong Socialist party," is right. When wages are high and times good "social theories" lose their charm.

This writer, now paying thirteen dollars a day to a large crew of bricklayers, once reported a violent strike with street car drivers trying to get $1.50 a day and keeping it all for themselves, not paying a commission to the boss. High finance, to be happy, should pay good wages.

They don't let the lions and tigers, acting in Hollywood, get hungry.

A REAL DAY in Wall Street yesterday, almost 3,000,000 shares sold. When the market opened there were buyers asking for 5,000 shares of one stock; not a share was offered. Something strange on the Exchange.

The great financial pot is still boiling violently, and the fire seems to get hotter. Some will get scalded, others will get their share of rich financial soup.

The cold-blooded thinkers are watching and wondering when to "sell short." Many have tried, had their fingers burned and are still watching.

Yesterday wasn't a good day to sell Judge Gary's U. S. Steel stock. It went above $134 per share. Not long ago Frank Munsey was buying it in tens of thousands of shares at a time for less than $20 a share. No wonder wise Mr. Munsey is rich.

NEWS FROM Berlin will interest many everywhere. One of the Rothschilds, Baron Erich Von Goldschmidt Rothschild, has married Countess Veronica Henckel Von Donnersmarck, a Gentile.

This is the first "mixed" marriage sanctioned by the Rothschilds in the history of that great financial house. The death of young Baron Rothschild's grandmother made the marriage with full consent possible.

The fact that a man of Jewish faith marries a member of the Prussian nobility also interests those acquainted with mediaeval history.

THE DULLEST of us should realize that there are no more islands and no more oceans. An Italian count, Eugenio Casagrande Di Villaviera, is on his way, flying from Genoa to Buenos Aires.

And an Argentine, Guillermo Hillicoat, started yesterday morning from Buenos Aires to New York through the air.

ANTIQUE MINDS in Washington, still talking about battleships and cruisers "to defend the United States," should awake from their nap, look at the sky and think a little.

If war ever comes here, it will come THROUGH THE AIR. And it will have an easy time, for this fat country, swollen with money, is as thoroughly unprepared for attack as Persia was when Alexander, with 30,000 men, captured all the gold and made himself ruler.

A WEST TEXAS conference of Methodist ministers decides "to battle evolution to a finish," a wise decision, to be welcomed by all.

If evolution is a false doctrine, offensive to Providence, it ought to be suppressed, with proper respect, of course, for Constitutional guarantees of free speech, thought, etc.

If evolution represents, on the contrary, a process by which it has pleased Providence to build up life on the earth, as it is built up in the pre-natal condition, the opposition is the best possible thing. From debate comes truth.

PARIS HATMAKERS and hairdressers have scored two complete failures. The hatmakers wanted women to wear big hats. They refused and cling to the little bell-shaped contrivances. Hairdressers tried to persuade bobbed ladies to go back to wigs while waiting to grow hair. That failed. You may see women imitating men and wearing substantially the same sort of clothes for months at a time.

LABOR SOCIALISM made enormous gains everywhere in the British election of borough councillors. This interests and frightens conservatism, first because it may mean another labor ministry, and second because labor councillors, whenever they are in power, increase taxes, taking from those that have to hand something to those that have not, or that think they haven't enough.

SCORES CALLED IN LOWELL PROBE

Grand Jury Begins Tomorrow Sifting Charges of Maladministration in City

Lowell, Nov. 5.—Two score local city officials, including Mayor John J. Donovan, Treasurer Fred H. Bourke, Solicitor F. J. Reynolds and Auditor Daniel E. Martin, heads of several departments and city employes, representatives of ten or more banks and bookkeepers of widely-known business houses dealing in lumber and hardware, were today ordered to appear before the Middlesex County Grand Jury, which is to convene tomorrow to conduct a special probe of municipal affairs.

The session is the result of an investigation conducted by Assistant District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, appointed by Reading after complaints had reached the district attorney relative to "deplorable" conditions in this city.

Violation of the city charter, it is said by those in "the know," such as failure to advertise city contracts amounting to more than $500, which according to Plan B Charter must be advertised and bid upon by those who wished to receive them, will be delved into.

Other complaints allege that the present city government do not fulfill the spirit of the charter by cutting up large jobs into three or four so that they will amount to less than $500 in order that they may be given to friends of the administration.

SICK HUSBAND ASKS POLICE TO FIND WIFE

From a sick bed at his home at No. 7 Bay road, Revere, Frank Keller asked the police to locate his wife, Lillian, who has been missing since October 24. He said she left to go to Boston to do some shopping and that she had considerable money with her.

Mrs. Keller, is twenty-six and weighs 150 pounds. She has long black hair, wore a brown cloth coat with black fur collar and cuffs. They have no children.

SAYS HER SOUL PAID FOR SHEIK'S LOVE

Beatrice Griffith of Providence, held as a thief, says all the girls wanted Roy McLane, but that she kept him by money realized from stealing.

BEAT HER RIVALS BY STEALING, GIRL SAYS

Providence "Sheik" Had to Be Won Back Every Time He Sidestepped

Providence, Nov. 5.—A tale as veiled as an epic from a Poe was disclosed here today when Beatrice O. Griffith, twenty-three, pretty and unmarried, accused of robbing her employers of jewelry, dramatically pointed a theoretical finger of accusation at her former fiance, Roy Edward McLane, and told a Boston Evening American reporter that it was under McLane's hypnotic influence that she was forced to steal in order to try and supply his insatiable demands for money.

The girl, in court, simply said "guilty," and then, under press of cross-examination, told of the Svengali-like influence of McLane, who was held on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

The judge advised her to change her plea to not guilty. She is now out on bail, as is McLane, awaiting hearings November 17.

Her story as told today was an amazing one of physical appeal and hypnotic influences.

"Love him?" asked the girl "that's rather a foolish question, isn't it? Didn't I steal for him; sell my soul for him? Wouldn't I have died for him? Isn't that love? I thought it was!

"Stealing? Why, stealing isn't anything to what I would have done to prove my love for him.

"I was mad when I thought of his many other girls, but oh, so happy when he would smile deeply into my eyes and tell me he loved me.

"I wanted him—wanted him more than I had ever wanted anything in my life.

"Many times he threw me over and I cried myself to sleep over the fact that he was out with some other girl. Then I would be so wonderfully happy when I saw that I could win him back.

"I'm honest when I say I vamped him, and how gloriously happy I was when I realized that first night that he was mine—ALL mine—I thought then.

"This was three and a half years ago. I loved him. He was my man. My mate. I wasn't myself at all while under the influence of his eyes, his soft caresses—his passionate kisses.

"I don't know who said it—but someone once wrote that someone had loved unwisely but too well. Well, that's me. Now, it is up to me to make good again. And I will."

McLane denied that he knew the girl intimately and scoffed the idea that she ever paid his way into a dance hall or stole for him.

"She's just trying to make me the fall guy for somebody else," he announced. "But she can't get by with it."

BUILDS HOUSE, DEFIES WALTHAM OFFICIALS

Despite refusal by city officials to issue permits for completion of his two-family house in a one-family district, Michael Connors of No. 15 Plympton street, Waltham, has gone ahead with the work on the building at Elson and Prospect Hill roads, Waltham. Work was recently halted when the city refused to issue plumbing and lathing permits because since the house was started a new zoning ordinance was passed restricting the district to single family dwellings. Connors has gone ahead with the work on advice of counsel. The next move is up to the city.

Sparkling Eyes and Clear Glowing Skin Come Back

After INDICAN Test Showed Cause of Pimples, Blackheads, Pale Skin and Sleepy, Dull Eyes

It is amazing how a simple little test that thousands now are making can change you from a tired out person troubled with broken out skin, sallow complexion and dull eyes, to one gentle wide-awake person, feeling tip-top and looking tip-top, the kind everyone admires.

As long as there is Indican in your system, you just cannot help having sick headaches, sour stomach, no appetite, biliousness and no energy, dull eyes, pimply skin and listless, dull spirits.

What is INDICAN?

Indican is the danger sign which shows that poisons and foul gases due to sluggish stomach, liver and bowels are seeping through your blood—into every muscle and every joint. Unless checked, these poisons are said to cause serious diseases. Yet, thousands have Indican and don't know it until too late. You may think you are free from it, but a test may surprise you.

Make the INDICAN TEST Yourself

Save artificials made, and if the chemist reports Indican present, or if you can't recall being poisoned you are victims of sluggish bowels, bilious attacks, sour, bloated stomach, foul breath, headaches, and poor appetite, immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills and see how the Indican starts to disappear and how much better you feel in every way. Much better Carter's Little Liver Pills not only make the stomach, liver and bowels work in a fine healthy manner, but also have been found to drive the Indican out of the system.

FIGHT INDICAN WITH CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

MALDEN MAN IS ACCUSED OF LURING GIRLS

Is Charged With Starting on a "Trip to Florida" With Two Cambridge Misses

Israel N. Greenburg, twenty-eight years old, of Essex street, Malden, who has a wife and child, was arraigned in East Cambridge court today, charged with abduction for improper purposes of two Cambridge girls.

Although Greenburg claims the girls left him at Hartford, Ct., on the way to Florida, they have not returned to their homes, and the police are seeking them.

Greenburg pleaded not guilty to the charge and was held in $1,000 until November 11, to which date the case was continued on request of his counsel, Attorney Francis J. Roche.

The police told Judge Arthur P. Stone that Greenburg and another man, while riding in an automobile, gave the two girls a lift from Boston to Cambridge last Saturday.

WARNED BY POLICEMAN.

During the ride, the girls, overhearing the men discussing a projected journey to Florida, expressed a desire to accompany them, the police said.

Greenburg agreed to take them, and on arriving in Cambridge made an appointment for later in the day. At noon he went to Cambridge police headquarters to obtain permission to transfer ownership of an automobile without waiting four days.

Special Officer Thomas F. Burke told Greenburg asked him if he thought it would be all right to take a couple of girls to Florida. The policeman said he warned against it, unless Greenburg had permission from the girls' parents. He quoted Greenburg as saying one girl was having trouble with her father.

SECOND MAN HUNTED.

The two men and the girls left Cambridge Saturday afternoon, the police say, motoring to Springfield where the other man left the party and went home. After spending the night at Springfield, the police charge Greenburg and the girls went to Hartford. There, according to police, the girls became frightened and decided to abandon the trip, leaving Greenburg alone.

He also returned to Cambridge, where he is said to have told the police he had left the girls in Boston.

There is a warrant out for the arrest of the other man whose identity is known to the police.

Out of deference to the young women and their families, their names are withheld by the Boston Evening American.

BUSH WILL CASE REACHES JURY TOMORROW

Final Arguments in Contest Closed Today; Early Verdict Is Expected

Salem, Nov. 5.—The jury in the contest of the will of the late Dr. John Foster Bush, of Andover, will get the case tomorrow and a decision is expected before tomorrow night.

Final arguments in the case, together with the charge to the jury by Judge Greenhalge, were finished today.

Declaring that Dr. Bush, who left $50,000 in trust to his elder daughter and many times that amount to his younger daughter, was sane, Attorney James W. Sullivan, counsel for the proponents of the will, produced a letter purporting to explain the provisions of the document.

In the letter, Dr. Bush is alleged to have written that he did not want his will contested and that his elder daughter, Ella, was a spendthrift whom he had provided with large sums of money while he lived. He considered that her children would profit little by a large legacy to her.

His younger daughter, Theora, had received but little from him during his life, the letter said, according to Attorney Sullivan. Attorney Sherman Whipple summed up all the evidence put in by the contestants and rested his case.

3 SUBPOENAS WITHDRAWN BY MITCHELL

Washington, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Further compromises in the matter of witnesses and documentary evidence were made today between the prosecution and defense counsels of the court martial trial of Colonel William Mitchell, accused of conduct during the air controversy prejudicial to good order and military discipline.

Colonel Mitchell agreed to withdraw requests for subpoenas for Major-General Robert C. Davis, Adjutant-General of the Army; Rear-Admiral Hilary P. Jones, president of the Shenandoah inquiry court, and Major A. N. Krogstad of Luke Field, Honolulu.

At the same time Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph I. McMullen, assistant trial judge advocate, obtained consent of the White House and the War, Navy and Agricultural Departments that documents in their possession relating to aviation be turned over to the defense counsel.

SUES BROTHER-IN-LAW

Trial began before a jury in Superior Court, at East Cambridge today, of the suit of Joseph A. Hart, head of the Hart Jitney Bus Company of Malden against his brother-in-law, Charles T. Silliker, for $5,000 and charging alienation of the affections of his wife, Estella Silliker Hart.

Hart testified he employed Miss Silliker as housekeeper in 1919 and he married her in 1922. She had charge of the receipts from the bus line, he said, and he claims she left them when he questioned her about an automobile she was driving. She started divorce proceedings but later dropped them and returned to live with him, he said. A second time she left and again brought divorce suit, Hart said. Her petition was denied. She then went to live with her brother.

OPPOSE PETITION FOR NEW FALMOUTH BANK

The petition of the Wareham Savings Bank for authority to establish a branch in Falmouth was opposed today before Bank Commissioner Roy A. Hovey by A. M. Goodspeed, a director of the Falmouth National Bank. He declared there was no necessity for another bank in that town. Sumner Crosby, Beaman C. Jenkins and George R. Dean backed Goodspeed's statement. J. E. Eldredge, treasurer of the Wareham bank said it had $900,000 in mortgage loans in Falmouth and $100,000 in deposits of Falmouth residents.

LOWELL'S 'RED BLOOD' SPEECH 'MISQUOTED'

Harvard President Declares That He Made No Reference to Athletics

In a letter appearing in the current issue of the Harvard Crimson, President A. Lawrence Lowell complains that he was misquoted in reports of his speech Friday night at New Haven.

He spoke behind closed doors to the convention of American universities, the address being released for publication on Monday.

In this report President Lowell was quoted as saying:

"When I have one of Harvard's robust graduates come up to me and loudly say: 'I am a red blooded man; I want to know why the football team doesn't win,' I cannot help recalling what the psychologists say—that the human blood is most red when it has not been through the brain."

In his letter the president of Harvard declares he did not recall saying anything about athletics; that things he did say had been given a false emphasis, and that the main point missed altogether.

WHAT HE DENIES.

The report featured President Lowell deploring the absence of intellectual development among present day college students. He was quoted as saying students and graduates were far more proud of their achievements on the athletic field and on the campus than in the class room.

His letter to the Crimson says:

"Two things mortal man cannot escape. One is death and the other is being misquoted. The first happens but once, and I have been fortunate in not having the second happen often; but an extemporaneous after-dinner speech at a private dinner is liable to filter out disfigured. Some of the things I am reported to have said at New Haven I did not say; others have been given a false emphasis; and the main point seems to have missed altogether.

"The gist of my remarks was that interest in and respect for intellectual life were essential in the college in order that it retain its vitality and prepare men for the graduate and professional schools and for citizenship; that such interest and respect are not in American colleges what they should be.

AT FRONT IN WAR.

"I said that this is not due to the fact that youth is naturally self-indulgent or indolent; that in time of war college students would not volunteer for a regiment that would be comfortably and safely housed and exposed to no danger, but would strive to get into the regiment that was going to the front, amidst privation, wounds and death; that youth desired to sacrifice itself for something that was worth while, but that American colleges have by no means wholly succeeded in making their students feel that the intellectual life is worth while.

"I referred to a committee which in 1903 found respect for intellectual attainment at a very low ebb at Harvard; and added that the condition has since been much improved by the general examination and the system of tutors.

"I do not recall that I said anything about athletics, although a college president can hardly say anything without being supposed to allude slyly to that subject. Of course I believe in athletic sports, as promoting health in body and soul; and, being human, should not be cast down by a larger share of victories.

"In all these matters I think that most of the undergraduates at Harvard College at the present day agree with me."

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Miss Marian Shaw Fenno to Become Bride of W. B. McIlvaine, Jr.

MISS MARIAN SHAW FENNO, daughter of Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno of Beacon street and "Ox Pasture Hill," Rowley, is to be a bride on Saturday, December 5, when she becomes Mrs. William B. McIlvaine, Jr., at Trinity Church.

THE BRIDE, member of the Chilton Club, the Vincent Club and the Junior League, is one of the four daughters gracing the Carteret Fenno family. Her engagement, announced from Lausanne, last Summer by Mrs. Fenno, was of much interest to her relatives and friends.

LIKE THE ALLIANCES of Miss Barbara Burr and William Rand, Jr., Miss Ruth Thayer and Robert C. Rand, Miss Elisabeth Thorndike and John Paterson Duncan, the Fenno-McIlvaine nuptials take away a charming Boston girl to figure as a young matron in another metropolitan setting.

MRS. A. MARSHALL JONES' luncheon for Miss Faith Jones, at the Women's Republican Club, launched that young and attractive bud for a brief season on the social seas lasting until be New Year when both Mrs. Jones and her daughter sail abroad, going first to Paris and then to Grenoble, France.

THEY'LL BE AWAY PROBABLY until next Autumn. At Grenoble Miss Jones seeks further high perfection in the French language, following her graduation from the May School here, where she was accorded honor as class president by her schoolmates.

AS TO THE LUNCHEON itself, 30 girls of the honored bud's Junior League provisional group were received by Mrs. and Miss Jones in the French room of the club, before trooping downstairs into the stately main dining room for luncheon about small tables laden with pink roses.

MISS JONES WORE a Paris frock done in true French simplicity, of softest satin in turquoise blue, sleeveless and girlish to a degree. For chapeau she chose a wide black velvet picture affair, with drooping Romney lines.

BLACK, WITH TOUCHES of gold—the Midas note that Dame Fashion emphasizes this season—was worn by Mrs. Jones, a handsome creation of velvet with long sleeves. She, too, wore a hat of black, completing an ensemble of much smartness.

THE JONES' LUNCHEON preceded Mrs. H. Hooper Lawrence's debut tea for Miss Caroline Lawrence and Miss Frances Whitlock, at the Lawrence Beacon street home and Mrs. Jasper Whiting's dinner and dance for Miss Eleanor Frothingham at the Chilton Club.

AT THE LAWRENCE home quantities of blossoms, and the shining green of smilax made a bower for the receiving line—Mrs. Lawrence, handsome in black satin and chiffon with jade pendants, Miss Whitlock in cafe au lait crepe handed with heavy lace and Miss Lawrence in the palest of pink crepe.

MISS NANCY WENTWORTH, vivacious and handsome representative of last Winter's set, marshaled the tea table group—the Misses Esther Sears, Sally Dodge, Henrietta Sedgwick, Anne Williams, Helen Streeter, Harriet Mason, Ellen Wales, Peggy Howe, Charlotte Reid and Virginia Roberts.

ALSO, MISS ANNE RELKNAP, Miss Helen Jackson, Miss Eleanor Frothingham, Miss Helen Marriam, Miss Ruth Gibson, Miss Cordelia Dunstan, Miss Ruth Bayliss and Miss Katherine Howard.

EN VOYAGE TO European shores—the steamship De Grasse, of the French line has on her passenger list a goodly local contingent. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Boardman with their two daughters, Miss Elvira Boardman and Miss Isabel, sailed, also a Sortwell family group.

IN THE LATTER there is Miss Frances Sortwell, with Miss Fabienne Sortwell and Master Michael Sortwell. They belong to Wisconsset, Maine, and the Alvin Sortwell family so notably connected with that lovely little town's present and past.

JOHN SINGER SARGENT devotees filled Fenway Court as guests of the Art Museum trustees and the Court trustees—and everyone, of course, gathered before one or another of the Sargent works.

I NOTED the B. H. Bristow Draper in the company, the former Miss Mary Atkinson, who is now Mrs. Henry F. Colt, and the Thomas G. Frothinghams, among others. Mrs. Draper was handsomely costumed in rose cloth with leopard fur—an ensemble setting off superbly her dark, good looks.

Gifts for his sisters and his cousins and his aunts

How the average man hates to shop! He puts off getting Christmas gifts until the last possible minute, and then dashes into the nearest store and buys the first thing at hand.

Men like to shop in our store. They find comfort and leisure to choose their gifts. They find that our salesmen are really helpful in offering suggestions for gifts. They find that they can buy very feminine gifts without self-consciousness.

Now is the time to buy Christmas gifts. The stocks are complete. The store is not so crowded as it will be later.

If you wish to look at jewelry or leather goods, you will find them on the first floor. The second floor is the silver floor. Antiques crowd our third floor, and lamps are on the fourth.

Choose your gifts now. If you wish, we shall deliver them straight from the store just before Christmas.

BAKER HEIRESS IS BRIDE-ELECT AGAIN--RUMOR

Chicago Girl's Engagement to British War Veteran of 48 is Reported

Chicago, Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Miss Landon Baker, the Chicago girl who twice left Allister McCormick waiting at the church in vain, and who several times since has been reported about to be married, figures again in an engagement story.

This one comes from London, where the Daily Graphic says she has plighted her troth to Captain Ralph Peto, forty-eight-year-old World War veteran, divorced two years ago by a cousin of the Duchess of Rutland.

Captain Peto and Miss Baker are in Venice, from where she has sent word that she will sail for home November 17. She did not mention any engagement and relatives here could not be reached. Mrs. Alfred L. Baker, her mother, is with Mary.

It was in 1922 that society, gathered in the fashionable Fourth Presbyterian Church for the arranged McCormick-Baker wedding, was startled by Mary's decision to call it off. Her parents called in the invitations and said their daughter was suffering from a nervous collapse.

Later she fled from Chicago with the jilted bridegroom-elect in hot pursuit. His further plans for a marriage were futile, and later, in England, he married Joan Stevens of London.

During the last year she has been much in the company of Count Brisac Pourich, Jugo-Slavian counsel in Chicago. The Count, Mary and Mary's mother sailed for Europe on the same boat last Summer.

WOMEN ASKING FUNDS FOR MISSIONS

National Council Auxiliary Hears Bishop Slattery at Anniversary Service

An earnest plea for funds with which to carry on missionary work was asked of the Massachusetts branch, Women's Auxiliary, National Council of Churches, at its 44th anniversary services in the Cathedral of St. Paul.

Bishop Slattery in an earlier heart to heart plea to the women said: "I have thought if I did not by June 1 get the $150,000 which we need, we will not get it; therefore, will you not yourselves send in what you can, remembering that you must give also the usual amount for the apportionment next year, because if we should give this sum and our apportionment failed, it would not do any good, that is, nothing extra would be accomplished.

"At the last General Convention it was ordered—not requested—that the members of the national council find out by June 1 what would probably be our receipts for 1926, and if they find that the receipts from the various dioceses will not be sufficient to meet the budget, they must reduce their budget. All the people now in the mission field want to stay in the field.

"Go home and tell your people the great dioceses of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts have not paid their apportionments. Now we are going to pay our apportionment this next year. If you think your diocese is paying too much, go around the corner and look at what other parishes are doing. If you see they are working too hard, say to them he will give you $100 or $1000 to help you out with your apportionment. I am sure you can do it.

Dr. Norman B. Nash spoke on "Your Parish and Your Community," and Rt. Rev. George A. Oldham, bishop of Albany, spoke on "Christianizing America."

The CAPITAL and SURPLUS of the BANK is $40,000,000

Do you remember this advertisement? It appeared almost two years ago—a fact story of the progress of one of our customers. There is an amazing coincidence between his experience and the one related here, but among 90,000 customers, parallel problems are not unusual, for the rules of good banking are always the same.

"He opened his account with $98"— said one of our officers recently in introducing a customer to a friend.

"It was $8. I borrowed the $90," said the customer.

He was a dealer in old metal. He talked over purchases with his bank. The bank loaned him money. His account has grown steadily. His deposits now balance above $10,000. He is making excellent progress.

There is more involved in the business of a great bank with its customers than a knowledge of arithmetic, loans, and interest. There is common sense, faith, a knowledge of human worth, and a tireless effort to understand the customer's problem from the customer's view point.

Working with some 32,000 commercial customers, The First gets practical training that ought to make its service worth your testing, at any of our offices.

AGED ROXBURY WOMAN TAKEN DOWN LADDER

Two Are Rescued During Fire in Cabot Street Tenement House

Two aged women were saved from death in a spectacular rescue and one fireman was seriously injured at a two-alarm fire early today in a tenement house at No. 123-125 Cabot street, Roxbury.

Mrs. Laura Harrison, 70 years, who resides on the top floor of No. 123, was carried down a ladder by Ladderman William Hughes and Patrolmen Thomas O'Malley and Patrick Gilmore of the Roxbury Crossing station.

The rescuers were informed by Mrs. Annie B. Duckett, another tenant, who was also rescued, that Mrs. Harrison was asleep on the top floor and she was unable to arouse her.

The officers and fireman groped their way through the smoke-filled building and found their victim overcome by the smoke and lying on the bed in an unconscious condition.

Ladders were thrown up to the two windows of her room and she was carried over them to safety.

Lieutenant John Hackett of Engine 14 was seriously injured when he was thrown a distance of 25 feet when the ladder he was working on slipped down the side of the building.

At the City Hospital, where he was taken, it was found that he was suffering from a fractured skull and possibly internal injuries.

The fire started in one of the tenements on the lower floor and had spread through the building before the firemen arrived.

DEATH CURTAILS VENGEANCE IN GEM ROBBERY

Lenox Man Dies Year After Tracking Down Gang in $90,000 Jewel Theft

Lenox, Nov. 5 (I.N.S.)—Revenge was never sought by Albert R. Shattuck, aged New York financier who startled the world by turning international detective.

Today, a few weeks over a year from the time he rounded up the last of the gang of five that looted his New York home of $90,000 worth of jewelry, Shattuck lies dead in his villa here.

Three years ago, in broad daylight, the thugs locked Mrs. Shattuck and seven servants, one wise cellar of their New York home and then stole the jewels.

Carrying out his vow to spend the remainder of his life in capturing the robbers, Shattuck made three trips to Europe.

Henri Hollet, the Shattuck former butler, was captured in France and sentenced to death. In September, last year, "Jockey" Oudillert, and three members of his gang were arrested and sent to Sing Sing.

DIVORCEE SEEKING TO CHANGE NAME OF SON

A petition to have the name of her son changed from John Bovindson, Jr., to John Derek Bovindson was filed by Mrs. Gertrude Bovindson of Quincy in the Dedham Probate Court today. The mother claims she has divorced her husband and does not want her son to bear the father's ex act name. She asked that the junior be dropped and the Derek inserted as a middle name. The child was born in Tokio, Japan, five years ago.

HARVARD BOILS IN BRAWN AND BRAIN FIGHT

Students Are Split Into Rival Factions, Each Accusing the Other of "Joke"

The Flower of Harvard divided itself sharply in the middle today over the mysterious "Brain vs. Brawn" postcard ballot and the rival camps proceeded to blame each other, in long and lusty words, for the puzzling poll.

As the first innocent returns in the ballot showed a preference for brawn and athletic prestige as best advertisements for a college, the Harvard Crimson, which blames the editors of the Lampoon for the "joke poll," printed a story that most of the cards had been held up in the mails.

Investigation, however, and a statement by Postmaster Channing Cain in Cambridge, disclosed that this statement was in error, the postmaster declaring that all the cards were checked through his office to the addresses.

And while the Crimson and its followers blame the Lampoon, and its camp, the latter group blames the Crimson gang for the joke ballot.

200 BALLOTS CAST.

About 200 ballots have been returned today, with sentiment evenly divided into serious response, hardly serious response, levity, plain joking and days foolishness.

Verbatim, the ballot questions asked were:

"Harvard will be willing to trade President Lowell, President Emeritus Eliot and three heads of departments for a good running backfield, and no questions asked?

"Harvard wouldn't exchange one item of its academic prestige for the best all-American football team in history, and a herd of newspaper propagandists thrown in for bargain?"

Answers were to be "Yes" or "No" to either or both queries, but some responses were decidedly quaint, such as:

"So's your old man."

"The trouble is with the line, not the backfield."

"President Lowell would be a good mascot."

"Down with musty traditions."

"Most of those who would oppose such a deal probably wouldn't know about the trade until it was consummated."

"Isn't it a nice day?"

"She wouldn't, but she damn well might."

"What do you think of the Dawes plan?"

"I don't value either enough to sink the price of exchange."

"Include Professor J. Livingstone Lees."

BOYS BET ON RESULT.

Meanwhile—just as they would bet on the big football game, a horse race, a cinder track race, the number of steps taken by the chicken through a thin soup, and the outcome of the crew battle on the Thames—the sons of Harvard are wagering real money on the outcome of the postcard poll.

It is reported that odds are being offered on the campus by the sporting element to the effect that a fast backfield team is more desirable for the institution than the cold intellectual genius of President Lowell and all the fellow academicians.

Post cards that have been sent out in a referendum to determine which is the most desirable have been coming back as though in flood tide and the students wait with baited breath the result, all the while aggressively offering to take the long shot on the brawn side of the wager.

It transcends the problem of the fourth dimension, the Einstein Theory of Relativity and all of the elusive corrivals of the higher education which burn the gray matter in the skulls of under and upper classmen.

The student "grinds" and the cultural dilettante who have been working more or less assiduously for degrees to add to their patrimonies have balled by the moment in discussions with the red-blooded "he" men of the university, this latest development of college life, and perchance to take a piece of the money offered.

The poll is to determine theories as the idea may be: whether President Lowell and the college dignities who figure in the development of the cum laude of the university are greater than those wise in the lore of athletic strategy and bodies sturdy with bone and muscle.

TINNEY DRINKING AND UNABLE TO GET JOB

Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 5 (A.P.)—Mrs. Edna Davenport Tinney's divorce suit against Frank Tinney, comedian, was heard today by Supreme Court Justice Riegelman. Decision was reserved.

George A. Hopkins, counsel for Tinney, in opposing Mrs. Tinney's application for alimony of $100 a week, said the comedian, who is now in London, had been without a job for three months because of his drinking. This made it impossible for him to pay such alimony, the lawyer said. He told the court that Tinney formerly made $2,500 a week appearing in London music halls and night clubs.

Imogene Wilson, once a chorus girl, was named as corespondent.

THIEF FLEES, LEAVING $575 WORTH OF "SPUDS"

Ten thousand pounds of excellent potatoes—$575 worth of spuds—were abandoned by some skittish thief early today in a wagon found by police in Cumberland street, West End. High prices or no, the thief was scared off at the approach of a patrolman, the police believe, and fled forsaking horse, wagon and his valuable "pommes de terre."

SECOND SECTION

A Story of Love and Mystery That Bares the Heart of the Chief Plotter

PETER BLAKENEY, a carefree young man, is in love with Rosemary Fowkes, but he forgets to propose, and Jasper Tarkington wins her. Rosemary, a writer, is induced to go to Transylvania and arrange a series of articles intended to clear the air of much international unpleasantness. Instantly she finds herself in the midst of a group of plotters. Even her best friends are arrested as spies, and though her husband is a great help, he always seems to fail in his efforts. So Rosemary decides to watch and wait.

That Wonderful Quaker Flavor

Is true Scotch flavor—
only QUAKER OATS has it

THE one thing to remember in buying oats is that Quaker Oats has the flavor you want. The difference is great.

Oats, originally a Scotch dish, must have a certain Scotch flavor.

There's real Scotch tang to that Quaker flavor.

No other brand has it. None successfully imitates it. It's due to exclusive Quaker milling of the finest, plumpest oats. Milling methods which took some 50 years to perfect.

Makes all the difference in the world. Quaker flavor spoils folks for ordinary brands.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. No kitchen muss busy mornings. Faster than plain toast.

Due to Quaker milling methods, it supplies, too, the "roughage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

2 Kinds { The Quaker Oats you have always known and Quick Quaker—cooks in 3 to 5 minutes

Why?

"Why," do eggs keep fresh after being pickled?

Some human beings after being pickled don't keep fresh. But that is not the case with eggs.

On their surfaces, they have tiny pores. Into these, the air goes and decomposes the life within the shell.

With the air go the germs. The germs must be fought. They are fought by the old custom of putting a coating of butter over these pores. Even varnish might help in filling up these pores or chewing gum, if it will harden sufficiently.

But there is nothing better or more easy in applying than to drop the fresh egg in waterglass.

That seals up the pores most effectively. The eggs can be kept in delightfully with this process, but look occasionally at them in the solution.

Above all don't boil them. Drop them on toast.

FLATLEY CALLS 'EM

No Dempsey High. Jack to Get Peace. Football Bonus. The Wailing Prexies.

By NICK FLATLEY

Nick Flatley

THE boys in Jack Dempsey's native village of Manassa, Colo., have come out strongly in favor of the Manassa Mauler after the latter's defeat by Tunney, and have decided that Jack is most to be pitied for the way he was robbed of the championship. The story was not up to the usual standard of either writing or punching, but it does show that Jack is a favorite with the folks who knew him when he was a boy. Jack came from a family of fighters. His father, Hyram Dempsey, retired from the game after fighting Harry Wills and ten rounds with Jeffries. Jack's brothers fought in their own high school days, and might have taken over the mantle of the Manassa Mauler if Jack hadn't decided to become a fighting man. It is interesting to note how in Judge Hyram Dempsey's family the championship has apparently skipped a generation, as Jack's father was a great fighter ahead of him as he was of his brothers and sisters. In the whole Dempsey family, only Jack and his father have ever been champions.

JACK has now been deserted by his press agent and the cold blooded critics around New York are threatening to dig up the birth records of Tommy Gibbons. The large Scotsman on all reverse of the decision of the referee, Jack declared that the former Lee needs is the chance that he will get for the same, now that the title doesn't seem to be in the cards. Jack is an ex-fighter, and he is not the only one who is touring the country and spending a good deal of time in the cities where he is not wanted. Jack Johnson is another who is touring the country and spending a good deal of time in the cities where he is not wanted.

THE promoters have at last developed a way to meet the fight spirit into the hearts of the football fans. They are offering bonuses for touchdowns, something like $10 extra for a score. This will start plenty of fighting. The Bunky game which means the hook for the referee. Definitely saving for the game of football as it is played today. The quarter who calls the proper play will certainly be right at the top window for the share. As the story goes the backs and ends are to be paid. The fans go to the game to see the backs and at a bonus system like this the game will undoubtedly be high school players and each pro football game will be equally spiced, can be made a great success. But not in the fashion in which it is being steered just now.

Red Grange's Own Story Starts Tomorrow

THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN will begin publication tomorrow of Red Grange's own story. He most talked-of football player in the country, and one of the greatest of all time, has compiled many interesting reminiscences of the game and of the men who have played it.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, famous football coach, has said that Grange is the best halfback he has ever seen in action. Walter Camp, dean of football critics, has called him the greatest player he has ever seen. Grantland Rice, famous sports writer, has said that Grange is the greatest football player he has ever seen.

These are great words of praise, coming from men who have watched and studied football for years. Red Grange himself is a modest young man who never argues with an official, never stops to berate his players, and never indulges in the other petty practices that are so often indulged in by players.

Tomorrow Grange tells the story of the Illinois-Penn game, telling how he and his mates outplayed their opponents, and how Grange and Friedman, Illinois backfield stars, outplayed Penn's famous backfield, which was considered the best in the country. Read what Grange has to say about the game, and when Penn is taking signals, let's see how [illegible]

Service Means Supremacy

A single hit may decide a world's series. An unexpected swell may snatch victory from the leading boat.

But truck supremacy is won on a more substantial issue—on the long, hard pull where minutes mean little and years mean all.

Graham Brothers won world supremacy among exclusive motor truck manufacturers because Graham Brothers Trucks have stood the test of exacting service in every line of business—and because they are priced at a figure that is too attractive to be overlooked.

QUALITY—that's Prince Albert all over. Just about the finest, kindest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar or corncob. We said "kindest." That means P. A.'s consideration for your tongue and throat. No bite. No parch. Nothing but cool comfort, refreshing as a breeze from the sea.

P. A. can't bite or parch. The Prince Albert process takes care of that. You can go to it from the minute you finish breakfast until you sign off at night. Slow or fast. P. A.'s quality makes you want to smoke pipe-load after pipe-load.

You'll never say "quit," and that's a fact.

Yes, sir! You'll have the little old world by the tail when you sign up with this big-league smoke. Sitting pretty and no mistake. Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A. sifts into your system and knocks pipe-peeves galley west.

Quality, you bet. And quantity too. You get TWO full ounces to the tin when you buy Prince Albert. (Look at the U. S. revenue stamp.) Let's get going. Slip into top-speed and head for the shop that hands out smoke-gladness in tidy red tins, marked "Prince Albert." Today!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and that classic chesterfield pound glass humidor with the sponge moistener top. And always, everywhere, you'll find it packed fresh and kept perfect by the Prince Albert process.

"Marion, I think you're beautiful!"

"I beg your pardon!" snapped Marion. In spite of herself she could not help liking just a little the clean cut young man with his honest looking face and his straight forward manner, and too, he was not a little good looking. Therefore, she was even more stern than she would have been had he been not the least attractive personality.

"I said I thought that you were beautiful."

"Would you like to have me get you some salt?" inquired Marion sweetly.

Too Fresh.

"Salt—salt; what in heaven's name for?"

"Isn't that what they put on things that are too fresh?"

"Listen, Marion; I know I'm fresh, and I'm awkward, and I don't ... how to make love—but please, I'm just dying to marry some nice, pretty sensible girl like you and make a home for her. And I just don't know how to go about it. I can't talk to girls glibly like most men can, but if you'll marry me, I'll—" Marion was on her feet.

"Get out of the house this instant," but instantly she repented. It was not her house, and probably he had a perfect right to be in it if he was a friend of the owners. Turning suddenly, she ran upstairs into her room and locked the door. For several moments there was quiet; and then a firm rap sounded upon her door.

"Who is it?" gasped Marion.

"Me," came meekly through the panels.

"What do you want?"

"I just want you to say you'll see me again tomorrow night, let me take you to a show or something—then I'll go away—but I won't go away unless you say you'll see me again some time. I'm I—I'm crazy about you. You're just the kind of a girl I want to marry."

Just then the door below opened and the family came in. A little frightened now, Marion called to them through the panels of the door.

Awaited the Patrol.

"There's a man up here annoying me, trying to break into my room!"

When the man of the house produced a revolver, Marion's caller meekly awaited the arrival of the patrol wagon. He entered it with out protesting and was driven away. The next day, Marion was called to the court to appear against the extraordinary suitor. She felt a little sorry for him, but Marion was Marion. She set her little jaws firmly when the case was called.

"What is your name?" snapped the irate judge to the hapless man.

"John Johnson, your Honor."

"Why did you annoy this girl?"

"I didn't annoy her, she sent for me to come and see her—"

"Why I never—" burst out Marion.

"What do you mean?" growled the judge. The prisoner handed his honor a letter. His honor read it through and turned to Marion.

"That your writing?"

"Yes!" admitted Marion weakly.

"Well, why did you have him dragged up here then? You women' Case dismissed!" Marion started to protest but the judge growled out:

"Next case!"

Finally Explained.

And it was not until a week after they had been married that John Johnson would explain the thing to her.

"You see, you addressed it to Rossville, N. Y. instead of, Ill., and although the street number wasn't mine, it's such a small town, the mailman brought it to me anyway, and when I read it and saw how that good-for-nothing namesake of mine had treated you—"

SAVED FRIEND FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Heckman Decided to Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — Note Results —

Council Bluffs, Iowa. — "I had pains in my back and sides and headaches, so that I could not do my work. Once in a while I would be sick a week. A friend told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had kept her out of the hospital, so I thought I would try it, as I had tried a number of other medicines. Now I feel like a different person and am telling my friends about the Vegetable Compound helping me, hoping they will let it help them, too." — Mrs. ETHEL HECKMAN, Box 24, R. F. D. No. 1, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Saved From An Operation

Monessen, Pa. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a serious case of female trouble. The worst pain I had was in my right side and back with swelling in my side so that I was unable to walk at one time. I was ordered to go to the hospital but here I am, still without an operation. I saw your advertisement and have taken the Vegetable Compound with splendid results." — Mrs. J. NELSON, 842 Donner Ave., Monessen, Pa.

BEDTIME STORY

HE WAS A HUNTER AFTER ALL

By Foxy Grandpa

WE went out in the country to visit for the week-end, and Elizabeth, our little friend, went with us. It was a lovely place outside of New York, near Long Island Sound.

The first day we were there Elizabeth and Bobby went in swimming. Bobby said he didn't care to, but would use that time to call on some of his friends in the neighborhood.

The next day our hostess said: "Elizabeth, would you like to go riding? Did you bring your riding clothes with you?"

"Oh, how lovely!" cried Elizabeth. "Yes, I brought my habit with me. When may I go?"

"This afternoon," said the lady. "We have a new horse, which perhaps you would like to ride. He is very quiet, good mannered horse, and I am sure you will enjoy him. Or, if you prefer, you may ride the pony."

"Oh, no," said Elizabeth. "I would much rather ride the horse, if you don't mind."

So after lunch Elizabeth ran up stairs and came down in a little while in her riding-habit. The groom brought the horse around and we went out in front of the house to see the little horse-woman start off.

"She's a fine horse," said Elizabeth's father, as he patted his nose and looked him over carefully.

"Looks like a hunter to me," he announced as he examined the fine big animal.

"Wouldn't be surprised," said the groom, "although I don't know whether he's been trained to jump or not, sir. I haven't tried him yet."

Elizabeth climbed up into the saddle and we laughed as she started down the stone drive. She did look so little perched up on the back of that big horse.

"She looks just like a grasshopper on a roof," chuckled her father as we went into the house. "I guess she can manage him all right."

We sat down to play a game of bridge and when we had finished our third rubber, the doorbell rang and in ran Elizabeth. Her little face was flushed, but I noticed she looked a little white around the mouth.

"How did it go?" asked her daddy as she went up to kiss him.

"Fine," said Elizabeth, "but do you know what happened?"

"Tell us about it," we all said, laying down our cards. Elizabeth threw herself in a chair, took off her hat and pushed her hair back from her forehead.

"That horse is a hunter," she declared.

"What makes you think so?" asked her father.

"Because, do you know what he did? We were riding along the road, and suddenly in the distance some fox hounds started to bark. And that horse stood right up on his hind legs, turned around and jumped right over a fence!"

"Did you stay on?" asked her father nervously.

"Yes, daddy, I did," replied Elizabeth, "but I certainly was surprised."

"I thought he looked like a hunter and as if he could jump. I suppose the next thing you'll be wanting to ride to hounds."

Bobby and Elizabeth went out of the room together and I heard her whisper to Bobby:

"I felt just exactly like a cowboy when that horse stood up on his hind legs, Bobby."

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—sluggish liver and disordered bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubles with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. Do not diet.

BEDTIME STORY

Have you the same ambition to succeed?

ARE you in a rut? Does each morning start just another dally grind, or does it mean a further chance to succeed? Men and women with rich, red blood face each new day with revived energy, vitality and interest. Lack of vitality, eight out of every ten instances, is caused by anemia, blood starvation. Watery, impoverished blood can be the root of every minor ill—colds, nervous breakdown, indigestion, insomnia—diseases of the physical and nervous system which undermine your efficiency.

For thirty-three years, Gude's Pepto-Mangan has been prescribed by physicians to restore new health to anemic, run-down bodies. Its iron and manganese content is easily assimilated by the blood and distributed to every cell in the body, fortifying them against preying disease germs, and revitalizing the entire system.

Your druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid or tablet form. Start taking it today.

FINANCE

BY B. C. FORBES

Everybody doesn't see things as you do? The 10,000 letters that come to the writer in course of a year several wake one bright and wild, differences of viewpoint. Each of us looks upon himself as a rather decent sort of a fellow, engaged in a decent line of work and treating other people decently. Most of our large employers, for example, feel that they are playing a worthy part in helping the world go round, and many of them certainly are quite sure that they treat their workers well. Many workers, however, feel very differently about the treatment they receive.

Suppose we consider today the viewpoint of others.

From a workman in California comes a letter containing these sentences:

"I have been reading your articles regarding executives who employ men seven days weekly, and I sure want to shake you by the hand because you have American ideals.

"I am employed by the Shell Company of California as a service station operator. I am married and have one child. I like my work and I am very conscientious about it. The Shell Company pays a living wage.

"But, I have one fault to find, and there is not one man in the company that will not agree with me. It is this: We work seven days a week, 365 days a year (not counting 7 days being vacation with pay)."

This letter signifies itself.

"I want to thank you for the stand you are taking on the seven-days' work week of 365 days a year's work. I work 365 days a year. I am a lineman. I go to work at 8:30 A. M., quit at 4:30 P. M., seven days a week or 365 days a year. I get 60 cents an hour or $4.80 a day—some pay isn't it? We get no time-and-half for Sundays or holidays or no vacation with pay."

This is from a New Orleans reader:

"Instead of a reduction in the inheritance tax we should continue it, but, instead of wasting its proceeds through governmental inefficiency this money should be used as a fund to provide old age pensions for all workers sixty years of age."

MARKET DAYS OF 3,000,000 SHARES HERE

By FRANK H. MELOON

Financial Editor.

When it was predicted early this year that the present bull market would see trading days in which 2,000,000 or more shares would change hands there were many who doubted it. 1925 would bring such increases, millions of business. Most of these are doubters no longer. The current week was started with a churning over that beyond a reasonable doubt crossed the 3,000,000 mark. If shares that changed hands as a result of "cross sales" orders had been recorded on the tape. That more such days are ahead is now the general expectation.

Trading on Wednesday set a new high mark.

President Goodnow and Secretary Rich of the Boston Stock Exchange forecast with remarkable accuracy and timeliness the present broad activity. This week started with more different issues changing hands in Boston, I am told, than ever before in the history of the local stock market.

Charles E. Hodges, Jr., vice-president and director of American Mutual Liability Insurance Co., and Philip L. Baltonstall have been elected directors of the National Rockland Bank.

President Coolidge of National Fabric & Finishing Co., in circular to stockholders advising them of decision to pass the common dividend, says: "After the shrinking of the inventory values, taken at cost or market, whichever was lower, about $140,000, and the setting aside of $135,000 reserve for depreciation on fixed assets, we still show earnings for the first year of about 2½ per cent. The economies of operation which are contemplated and can readily be put into effect during the second year should be very helpful to the results for the coming year's business."

President James H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine Railroad is proud of the fact that the line has been earning in the nine months to September 30 a total income of $8,846,256 available for interest and other fixed charges, or about 2¾ per cent. These charges have been a steadily growing appreciation of the strengthened position of the road's bond issues. There has been a steady demand for these bonds, particularly for those falling within the provisions of the fifteen-year clause, at 5 per cent, and with much of the buying coming from New York. Whereas these bonds were generally quoted two months ago on a basis to yield 7 per cent. or better, 6½ is now are, as a rule, nearer to a 6¼ per cent. basis.

From Newsboy to Mayor

Ralph S. Bauer Wins Clean Fight in Lynn

From a hard-fought campaign for Mayor of Lynn, Ralph S. Bauer emerges the winner.

As a candidate, he did those things which professional politicians are afraid to have a candidate do, and he left undone those things which professional politicians prod candidates into doing.

As a business man, he stood steadfastly for a business-like administration of the public business of Lynn. He called upon all the business men of Lynn and all of those who will benefit by Lynn's prosperity to support him. Apparently they responded to his appeal.

The election of Mr. Bauer as Mayor of his adopted city affords ample evidence, if any were needed, that America is indeed "the land of opportunity." He came to Massachusetts from Pennsylvania at the age of twelve, a newsboy, helping to support his family.

Up the ladder he has climbed, from newsboy to Mayor. This achievement is enough to entitle him to the congratulations and best wishes that his election have brought him from far and near.

His success is at once an example to the young, and an inspiration to young and old alike in the family of the nation.

Yes, Learned, Gloomy Dean

But We WANT a REAL Heaven

Dean Inge, ruler of the great Cathedral of St. Paul's in London, learned, wielding intellectual authority, distresses other clergymen. He calls upon them to admit that old ideas of the church are wrong, or else to come out "and condemn astronomy as impious and heretical."

Astronomers prove, says he, that there can be no such place as a heaven over our heads or a hell under our feet, with the earth whirling around. He tells the clergy to think less of God anthropomorphically, which means that you must think of him less as an INDIVIDUAL shaped like ourselves, and he says: "Think about heaven as a 'state,' rather than a place.'"

Once upon a time Dean Inge would have been burned alive for saying one-quarter of that. Now he simply distresses other clergymen, and some of them don't know what to answer. They know that the geocentric notion which Inge condemns, with the earth as the centre of everything, heaven above, hell beneath, and all the suns, moons, and all the stars whirling around it, is childish nonsense. They don't like to go as far as Dean Inge, who declares that God is not shaped like a man and hasn't got feet, hands and a beard, as men have. They don't want to ADMIT that heaven isn't a regular "place," with gold streets, gates of pearls. They deny that the Bible description of heaven simply reproduces the idea of an ancient Jewish ruler as to the kind of palace he would like to own.

And yet they do not know quite what to say to Dean Inge.

However, millions and millions of ordinary Christians know what to say. They don't WANT to think of heaven as a "state of mind." If heaven isn't AN ACTUAL PLACE, with seats reserved for them, fairly well up in front, they are not interested. They have enough states of mind right here on earth, what with the high cost of living, bootlegging, etc. The human heart craves a definite reality, in which it can believe.

Hence, the necessity and power of religion, which nothing can destroy.

A Coal Strike Is On

But the Government Doesn't Know It

There is a coal strike on, although you wouldn't think so judging by the indifference of national and State governments. Many citizens would like to put to Governors of States and to the President of the United States this question:

"How long can the owners of mines, who do not CREATE the coal, and 'own' it only by the public's permission, refuse to resume mining, and say 'it does no harm to let the people wait and suffer awhile. We decline to meet the workmen's demands?'"

Coal keeps, it doesn't run away, its owners are not worried. With increased prices they will be able to make up the loss. It is rather hard on the workmen, even if they are foolish and too exacting, as alleged. At least THEY pay the bill, for they are losing a million dollars a day in wages.

What about the people that USE coal? Have THEY NO rights? Are public employes, whose salaries they pay, not supposed to look after the public interest?

Nobody has even given the people an opportunity to express a choice in the matter. Perhaps THEY would be willing, in higher prices, to pay the workmen what they ask, if they could get the coal.

If our national and State governments are incapable of any other effort, they might at least give the people a chance by paying enough more for coal to give the workmen what they want, and thus get coal.

In any case, the President of the United States and the various Governors ought to SAY SOMETHING. That isn't too much to ask.

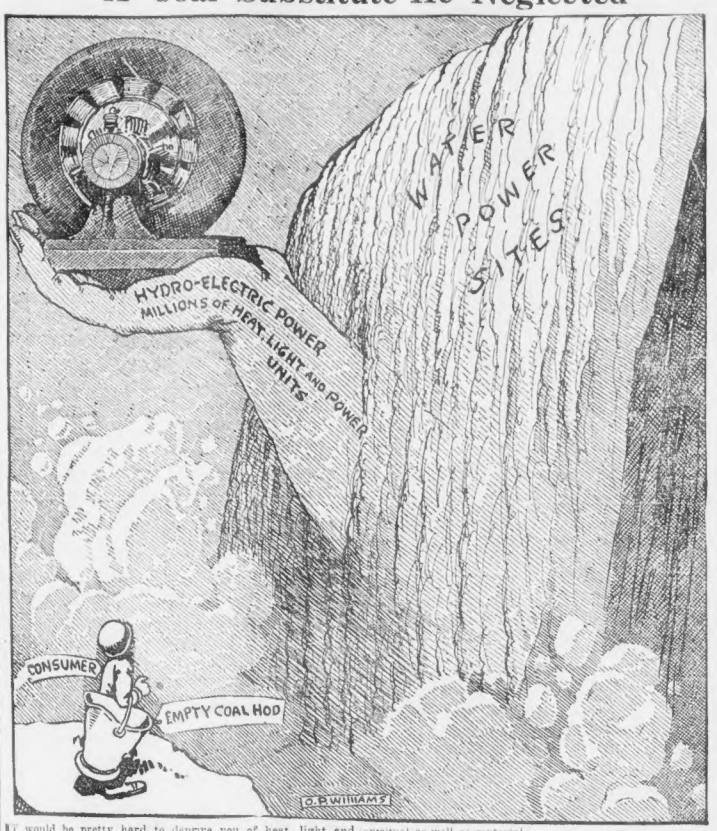
Cause and Effect

Arthur Henderson, the labor leader and former Home Secretary of England, who is now visiting us, is being overwhelmed with telegrams from all parts of the country, asking him to speak.

Why this sudden deluge? Because the newspapers carried an item that the Kiwanis Club of Hartford had cancelled an engagement with him. He was not safe enough.

But is the country any safer the way it has turned out? And is the country really any safer because Secretary Kellogg's respect for law and order is making the Countess Karolyi a topic of conversation from Maine to California?

A Coal Substitute He Neglected



It would be pretty hard to deprive you of heat, light and power through a strike at the waterfalls.

Throughout this opulent land billions of dollars of this sort rolls majestically to waste.

Fifty per cent. more power could be developed at Niagara by modern handling. It could be done without damaging the scenic grandeur of the Falls, itself a great national asset, spiritual as well as material.

Yet old private interests stand on their "rights" there, and at this moment industry for hundreds of miles around the Falls suffers. Most of the suffering is on the American side of the border. The wise Canadians long ago put their share of the Falls into public hands.

And Niagara is but one source of power among hundreds.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

A WELL known judge says that a husband is the head of his own house, but any married man knows better.

HE may be the boss, but not matrimonially.

A WIFE promises to love, honor and obey. She usually does the lying and honoring, but the husband does the obeying.

A MAN may be the whole cheese at his office, but he isn't even a cracker at home.

BUNGALOWS are built by men, paid for by men, and run by women.

A MAN is king in his own home as long as his wife is out.

AND the minute she comes back the neighbors start singing "God save the King."

A MAN is necessary in every home. Somebody has to be there to pay the rent.

HUSBANDS are handy things to have on the first of the month.

SO far, no use has been discovered for them for the other twenty-nine days.

THE average husband doesn't even make a good ornament.

A WIFE has all the responsibility of a home. All the husband has to do is spank the children.

IF he has no children, he can go next door and whip the neighbor's kids.

BUT, of course, he doesn't get as much pleasure out of it as he would if they were his own.

A HOME is a ship and the wife is the admiral. The husband usually turns out to be a skipper.

HE spends, his time looking around for a second mate.

THE average man is useless around the house. He can't even wind the phonograph without taking lessons.

RUNNING a home is a business.

One man brought seven stenographers from his office the other day and tried to put his home on a business basis.

THIS was a great idea, but his wife walked into the parlor and put him out of business.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

ON "MEETING OPPORTUNITY."

OPPORTUNITY.
Some people say,
Is A GREAT THING
Only it NEVER COMES
THEIR WAY.
The point is: would they RECOGNIZE IT IF IT DID?
Opportunity is
A MYTHICAL GENTLEMAN
Who is REPORTED to be
Everlastingly KNOCKING
On peoples' DOORS.
Tradition says that he
Knocks AT LEAST
ONCE in EVERY door
But in SOME cases
There is "NOBODY HOME!"
To anyone who is
EXPECTING him
The SLIGHTEST TAP is A TRUMPET CALL.
SOME people seem to be
So Blind, DEAF or
Plain "DUMB" that even
A LOUD knock would pass
UNNOTICED.
But WHY WAIT for him
To knock? OPEN
The door of your MIND and GO OUT
TO MEET HIM,

Another Divorce Remedy

To the Friend of the People:

It is interesting to read in your paper about matrimonial scraps that lead to divorce.

Everyone these days has some remedy for divorce. Let me give mine. A wife needs more attention these days than when Eve lived. Kiss your wife as you leave and return home daily. When you go to social gathering, don't leave your wife sitting on a sofa with some old lady and you smiling with a young short-skirt miss in the other room.

That's enough to start a curtain lecture when you get home. If wives received more attention from their hubbies in private as well as in public, I verily believe divorces would get a setback.

Unhappy Homes.

To the Friend of the People:

After reading about several divorce cases in your paper, I am convinced that these arise from magnifying little things. Quarrels and bickerings arise.

Married people live alone most of the time. Husbands get into habits of coming home in a silent mood. They do not cheer up anyone at the dinner table. The wife has been doing something all day and wants to have something else to think about outside of her cares.

The husband does not think of this. But often gets into the attitude of complaint after eating and then goes out seeking the fellowship of his companions, where he is a jolly good fellow. The wife is often oblieed to remain at home and think conditions over. Just a trifle will make homes happy or unhappy.

Modern Mothers.

To the Friend of the People:

May I enter my protest in your paper against the too common custom of finding fault with modern mothers.

They are charged with giving more attention to clubs and other matters than to their children and homes.

This subject was discussed at the recent meeting of the Massachusetts Parent-Teacher Association.

Mothers are just as careful and considerate of their children as any mother in the past. The demands made upon them in modern life are many and varied. They need some relaxation and change. This is part given them by club meetings.

Let mothers of today have more recreations. They need them, but don't infer that they are cold-blooded.

MRS. HENRY T. TITCOMB,

WOMEN OBJECT TO OUTDOOR SPORT FOR HUSBANDS

Many wives selfishly deprive their husbands of opportunities for recreation in outdoor exercise which men really need.

Why? Because they cannot join in the sport.

The old-time employer insisted that his men work on day in and day out, year in and year out, without vacation or rest periods.

They scouted the idea that change of scenery and environment were necessary—thought it all "poppy-cock."

The modern and more successful employer has learned that he gets better production from the men who gain a certain inspiration from periodic change, by way of occasional vacations.

Some wives are like the old-time employer in their prosaic ideas. They think their husbands could get just as much good from doing work around the house or in the yard as they can from amusement outside, such as golf, pitching quoits, baseball, yachting, hunting, fishing.

The value of exercise is lost when it must be gotten from something distasteful. Isn't that so, fellows?

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE DISCUSSED AGAIN

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE question of "world language" is in agitation again. The other day, at a conference of the Interparliamentary Union, Madame La Fontaine, the wife of the vice-president of Belgian Senate, affirmed that English was the most likely of all languages to be finally adopted for universal intercommunication on this planet.

But she pointed out one defect which she thought must certainly be cured before English could be accepted for universal use, and that was its misleading spelling. The spelling of practically all English words, she held, must first be made to closely approximate the pronunciation.

Fundamental Need

But the fundamental need, it seems to me, is less concerned with the letters used in spelling than with the sounds that are made to represent the various letters and combinations of letters.

An English-speaking person may learn French grammar perfectly and acquire a wide vocabulary of French words, and yet be unable to utter the sounds of the language in such a manner that French people can understand what he is saying.

The converse occurs with the Frenchman trying to speak English. Uncomprehended sounds, not eccentricities of spelling, nor even complexity of structure, form the greatest obstacle to the mastering of a foreign language.

"Simplified spelling" is less important and simplification and unification of vocal sounds. It is common knowledge that thousands of persons can read, and even write, foreign languages with ease, although unable to hold a conversation in them. The inventors of the various artificial languages that have entered the lists for the world prize have been wise in paying much attention to this essential matter of vocalization.

But there is another great difficulty in the way of the universal adoption of any single language for world use which needs to be deeply pondered, yet I doubt whether it has ever been adequate discussed. It is the question of literary influence. Such a language as it is proposed to make or to adopt ready made would, in the nature of the plan, be the one language necessarily learned by all people all over the world, in addition to each one's native tongue.

If it were a living language, with a historic past, and possessing a rich literature like English, French, German, Italian, it would gain an enormous advantage over others for the spread of its ideas in every form—literary, political, social, artistic, etc.

The mere possibility of this would excite jealousy and opposition on the part of its unsuccessful rivals. In fact, such possibility would probably prevent the choice of any of the great living languages if the plan ever got so far as an actual attempt at choosing.

In this respect a "machine-made" language, like Esperanto, would have a better chance, because it could excite no jealousy, having no history, no traditions and no literature.

And yet from letters that I have had from enthusiastic "Esperantists," it is apparent that some of them would be quite content with the literature that could be produced in that artificial language. Specimens have been shown me that were considered to be as good, almost, as some of the best things in Shakespeare.

It seems that poems have been written in Esperanto—not because the world is in need of a new language for its poetry, having already got "free verse" and "cubic construction" in the time-honored tongues—but only to illustrate what a made-to-order language is capable of.

No Mystery

But there is no mystery about the back-to-Babel movement; that is to say, to Babel as it was before the dispersion of tongues. It is a natural outcome of the same spirit of world unity that has developed modern commerce and modern fast transportation. It is a commercial, business and practical-science language that is wanted for universal use.

Literature is not to be thought of in connection with it until a thousand or two years of use shall have weaned it from its origin and inspired it with history, tradition and sentiments, the formation of any one of which is essential to the formation of any true instrument of the human mind.

THE POWDER KING

By Barbara Boyne

MORE than a hundred years ago an infant industry was founded on Brandywine Creek, four miles from Wilmington, Del., the first powder mill in this country, which was known as "The Brandywine Powder Works."

That same Brandywine mill furnished the American army and navy with powder in 1802 and every American war since. The powder manufactured by the company was a factor in the Crimean War, the Civil War, the Spanish War and a deciding factor in the World War.

The little mill has grown to be a giant industry, the most extensive of its kind in the world. Under the firm name of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. it has agencies and magazines all over the world and a distributing depot for the Pacific States at San Francisco.

The founder, Eleuthere Irenee du Pont, landed at Newport, R. I., in 1800, and located on Brandywine Creek. Lafayette knew the family in France, where they bore an illustrious name. In this country they have distinguished themselves not only in supplying the American navy with powder, but with admirals.

The little State of Delaware became too crowded with the numerous members of the du Pont family and Antoine Bidermam du Pont removed to Kentucky in search of new opportunities. There a son, T. Coleman du Pont, was born, who, in 1909, was offered the presidency of the Du Pont Powder Company.

He had started life at the bottom rung of the ladder, and at thirty-eight years of age, entirely by his own efforts, had become rich. Today he is one of the five richest men in the world, yet he is as democratic as democracy itself. He says that he "absorbed democracy when driving mules and swinging a pick in the Kentucky coal mines."

Under his management the Du Pont Powder Company undertook the utilization of by-products, and today the company is the largest makers of explosives, the largest manufacturers of leather substitutes in the world, and produces that wonderful anaesthetic, ether, in large quantities than anywhere else in America. There are, in all, about 250 commodities marketed by the du Ponts.

When T. Coleman du Pont took charge the office force consisted of seven clerks. Today there are something like 1,700, and altogether the plant employs about 5,000. He resigned the management after fifteen years to interest himself in other big enterprises, chiefly the erection of the Equitable Building in New York City, the largest and most splendid office building in the world.

Among his varied interests is a chain of fine hotels. Constructed at his own expense—about $4,000,000—is a magnificent highway the length of the State of Delaware, which he presented to the State. In order to rid his State of corrupt politicians, who had been in the saddle for twelve years, in 1921 he became United States Senator.
